Editorial by SDDT CEO

By Cassidy Mullennix

Here at JA BizTown we are having a wonderful chance of a lifetime. We are able to work in an office, make checks, and act as an adult. But there is only one way we can make this a successful trip is if we all work to get her. Someone can't run a business on their own. You must have a group to back you up. As I always say, "God didn't create us on his own." You tell me, do you have someone to back you up.

TTFN

By Melyssa Hoffmann

Ta Ta for now, Mrs. Smyth. After a sensational year with Room 14 at Pomerado, Mrs. Smyth is packing it up and heading out. But she doesn't have much to pack because the most precious thing she needs to take is stored in her basketball sized belly. In fact, this little baby, they nicknamed Santa, is the reason her doctor said to take it easy and shut the work door.

Bye Bye Mr. Jim

By Sandra Garcia

Bye Bye Mr. Jim. Our custodian Mr. Jim is leaving for the rest of our fifth grade school year. After many years of being at Pomerado Elementary School the a emotion twisting thing has happened. June 7th 2007 was his last day for the 2006-2007 year. He was happy, but we were not. He, of course, rubbed it in our face "summer vacation for me" said Mr. Jim "school for you" everyone thought it was sad but oh well because he's only going to bright, golden sunshine Hawaii. So while he's gone from us he is enjoying his Hawaii.

BUS

By Alex Wynhamer

As you may know our field trip to Riley's Farm was not so good for some people, because the bus got stuck in the Rainbow check point. The bus had a very bad tire that was showing metal through the rubber. While the bus was stopped the other bus ran a red light and could have been caught by the police. The bus driver was very old and she slammed on the brakes and we all went forward and hit our heads on the seats in front of us. When we got to Riley's farm, we got to do our rotations, and ended up having fun at Riley's farm.

Best Buy

By Breeanna Hoover

The Daily Transcript Newspaper:

In my interview with the CEO of Best Buy, Taylor Smith, I found out some of her likes and dislikes of JA Biztown. Her favorite part of JA Biztown is being able to see kids having fun. One of the things Taylor found interesting is that not a lot of people were coming to her business, the thing she found difficult is having to work with so much money. We also found out her favorite business which is Jack in the Box.

Biotech

The Daily Transcript:

In my interview with Eli Duarte, I found out that he likes serving customers needs. One big surprise that he noticed, was that he thought JA Biztown was going to be bigger. Something Eli found hard was running around to find where he was supposed to go.

JA BizTown is one of many programs that Junior Achievement offers to students of San Diego and Imperial Counties.
